MOBILE COMPUTING POLICY

1. PURPOSE

This mobile computing policy establishes guiding principles and a framework for the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA or Agency) approach to complying with the Telework Enhancement Act of 2010. The primary purpose of this policy is to ensure mobile computing equipment and resources accessing the EPA network are managed and used appropriately while promoting resource saving, improved sustainability, employee recruitment and retention, as well as supporting continuity of operations.

2. SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY

This policy applies to government furnished information management and technology solutions that store, process, transmit or receive EPA information, such as laptops, handheld mobile devices, smartphones, mobile management tools and software, network infrastructure, personal digital assistants and other portable media devices that may be used at locations outside of EPA's secured network and physical environment.

3. AUDIENCE

The audience for this policy includes EPA employees, managers, contractors and grantees that use or manage mobile computing information management technologies.

4. BACKGROUND

EPA and other Federal Agencies are challenged to create an environment that promotes transparency and workforce connectivity to enterprise resources while remaining secure, including employee work environments that transcend the physical location of their duty stations. Mobile computing allows employees to leverage information management and technology resources from locations outside of EPA's secured network and physical location. EPA must also effectively manage mobile resources to promote efficient spending of funds allocated for information technology needs. In order to support this environment, EPA employees who manage or use government furnished information management and technology solutions are responsible for following requirements set forth in the EPA information technology (IT) and information management (IM) policies, procedures and standards.

6. POLICY

EPA employees, managers, contractors and grantees must manage and use mobile computing resources in accordance with applicable Federal and Agency information technology and management laws and policies. EPA’s policies and procedures must support the use of mobile technologies to achieve access to EPA information and resources in an environment that complies with EPA enterprise architecture and security requirements.

6.1 Mobile Computing Requirements

EPA employees or other users who are granted permission to use EPA’s network must use government furnished information management and technology solutions to access EPA’s network outside of EPA’s secured physical location (e.g. telework status, official travel.)

EPA Owned or Managed Mobile Resources must be:

- Consistent and adherent to Agency information technology and operational policies, procedures and standards.
 - Configured to protect EPA information: when in use by authorized or unauthorized persons; when connected to the EPA network; when connected to a network other than an EPA network; and in the event of loss or theft.
 - Tracked and accounted for to ensure proper acquisition, upgrade and disposal; and monitored for authorized and unauthorized use.
 - Assessed and inventoried to establish controls to monitor usage of mobile devices, software and services.
